Architecture provides the framework.
Ritmo designs the space.

Especially in these times when places are used more and more flexibly, Ritmo is the solution. It combines variability with comfort, and fulfils even the highest aesthetic requirements. Its understated design language and clear lines make Ritmo adaptable to every situation – from conference to concert. It is, in the true meaning of the word, sustainable: ecologically as well as economically. That's what makes Ritmo fun. For the people who design the spaces as well as for the people who sit on Ritmo.

Ritmo spells an end to escaping from your chair. Ritmo is a chair you want to stay sitting on. Its quality is clear to see in the breaks during an event: if people do not leave the room, then that is a compliment to the chair. Ritmo is an elegant multi-purpose chair that is at home anywhere people want to sit – in the concert hall or the seminar room.

Ritmo is lightness in the shape of a chair.

Designers Kerstin Haage and Alfred Puchta translated this ideal into aesthetics and functionality, clarity of line and sitting comfort. The filigree armrests of Ritmo and its slim-line upholstery are a visible manifestation of its lightness.

Design is the synthesis of shape and materiality

The minimalistic design of Ritmo is brought to life by carefully selected wood. With its five different wooden surfaces, Ritmo brings atmosphere and warmth into the architecture.

Beauty is aesthetics that lasts.

Even the greatest design loses its shine if a chair cannot withstand the stresses of everyday use. There is no contradiction between resilience and aesthetics in the case of Ritmo. The tough laminate coating protects the seat shell, offering an unimpeded view of the oiled edges of the multiplex core.

Versatile shape, clear statement: that's Ritmo.

Ritmo is a true master of transformation. Upholstered or not upholstered, painted in various colours or natural with felt cover, with armrests or without, unobtrusive or striking: Ritmo is suitable for every room. Whether it's for an event, at work or in the privacy of home; for visitors, conferences, or even in the dining room.
